ETERNAL FAITH

The Easter theme of faith never was stronger in men's minds and hearts than it is today. It sustains men in the peril of battle, and it gives their loved ones courage to endure the separations and heartaches of a troubled time. To millions who have been reduced to helplessness by disaster, it is the only solace in misery and desperation.

Faith, in a larger sense, gives all of us the vision to believe that out of what we are doing will come some greater ultimate good than mankind has yet experienced. We are able to sense the coming of great opportunities, even in the midst of uncertainty and despair. Faith furnishes a higher guidance for our leadership and gives followers that sense of great purpose without which effort would dwindle to frustration.

It is secular, as well as religious faith which performs this miracle—faith that is bound in the souls of men as irrevocably as human instinct. Religion furnishes its most exalted expression, but the same source is found in human beings everywhere, whatever their formal beliefs. We feel it and respond to it, and we believe, too, that our enemies in a war being fought because men were untrue to their faith are feeling it. One day all men will find in its existence a common ground for understanding when we have tried a great deal harder and come a great deal closer to the eternal dream of peace on earth to all men of goodwill.

ONE THING AT A TIME

A lot of the conclusions being jumped at off the narrow springboard of the Wisconsin primary and Mr. Willkie's ensuing withdrawal as a contender for the Republican presidential nomination are bound to be wrong. They don't square up with the realities.

The contest for the Republican presidential nomination is a matter to be worked out one thing at a time. Mr. Willkie has withdrawn. That is a development, though it has relatively little bearing on the actual nomination. Mr. Willkie, himself, has explained that in order to be in the running at the convention he needed to show strength in the midwest. When he didn't show strength, he knew he was out of the running, something many Republicans had realized long ago.

The real contest lies, as it did before, between Gov. Bricker of Ohio and Gov. Dewey of New York, with former Gov. Stassen of Minnesota, Gen. MacArthur and several other possibilities entered at long odds.

Since Gov. Dewey and Mr. Willkie had shown predominant strength in public opinion polls, some conclusion jumpers are claiming that with Mr. Willkie out, Gov. Dewey, therefore, must be in. Public opinion polls are not nominating conventions, however. And the people who participate in them are not necessarily delegates. As far as the actual race for the nomination is concerned, Gov. Dewey is still doing his running in the paddock.

Gov. Bricker, on the other hand, has been letting the country get acquainted with him. He has done this believing the people have a right to know what a man aspiring to a presidential nomination stands for. He has stated his views on a wide variety of subjects and has answered questions freely. He will continue to do this until his party has made its decision on its presidential nominee next June. If nominated, he will follow the same procedure during his campaign. If someone else is nominated, he can be depended on to do his level best to help them follow it.

Gov. Bricker and Mr. Willkie have been setting the pace for the pre-convention race. Mr. Willkie now has dropped out. Gov. Bricker would welcome Gov. Dewey's active participation on the same candid basis from now till next June.

MR. WILLKIE'S WITHDRAWAL

Wendell Willkie's decision to drop out of the race for the Republican presidential nomination was fore-shadowed by his promise to stand or fall on the outcome of his bid for primary support in Wisconsin. He chose to test his political popularity in that state last Tuesday.

The result was strongly unfavorable—more so than it would have been in a more representative sampling of votes, but it convinced Mr. Willkie he could not win the Republican nomination on a basis of popularity with voters. It already was a foregone conclusion that he could not win it on a basis of support by the Republican party organization, because he never had worked in harmony with the organization. Except for his campaign in 1940, after his unexpected nomination at the Philadelphia convention, Mr. Willkie has been with, but not of, the Republican party. As the party's nominal leader in the intervening years, he had relatively slight contact or influence with the party organization. His political prestige has been that of a personality, not a party spokesman.

As a personality, Mr. Willkie has been continuously active and outspoken in political discussion. Gov. Bricker evaluated his political service accurately in a statement issued from Columbus Wednesday night: "Wendell L. Willkie stimulated interest in the 1944 campaign by freely and courageously discussing his conception of the issues that are facing us in this very serious situation."

Mr. Willkie's withdrawal leaves Gov. Bricker as the only active bidder for the Republican nomination and also enhances the prestige of Gov. Dewey of New York, who without being an open contender nevertheless is one.

Gov. Dewey, it now seems, will be obliged to share with Gov. Bricker the responsibility of preparing the Republican party for the momentous decisions it must make in the party convention next June by expressing his views on the issues which the electorate must resolve at the national election in November.

It is not known what role Mr. Willkie may choose to play in the months immediately ahead. Probably

Mr. Willkie, himself, does not know. Obviously, the Wisconsin results were a surprise to him, and it will take some time to orient himself as a public personality with no political objective. By the same token, his personal following, which he amassed in 1940 as the Republican nominee, will have to orient itself.

Mr. Willkie has performed distinguished public service in his political career, whatever the future may hold for him. More than any other individual, he has shown capacity for comprehension of national problems and ability to state them coherently. He has had a tremendous intellectual impact on the nation's thinking. He will continue to have a great opportunity to use his talents as his judgment and conscience may dictate. That is part of the freedom which he believes in and has ably defended.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, April 9

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an auspicious and felicitous one for the normal and conventional vocations and avocations of the Sabbath. The spiritual aspirations are quickened and the cultural and charitable propensities under excellent impetus to achievement in cherished lines. This probably to the extent of public, community or fraternal recognition and reward.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to expect a year of steady advance upon worthwhile objectives and high ambitions, with the talents, abilities and initiative keyed to brilliant performance and accomplishment. It is probable that this concentration of merits and skills may ensure public appreciation.

A child born on this day may be endowed with brilliant abilities to win for itself honored and lucrative returns for its well-organized efforts.

For Monday, April 10

Monday's astrological forecast, although promising that things may be expected to move at high tempo, and under excitedly accelerated pressure, it is probable that this condition may be due to wrestling with many kinds of adverse and tricky events or circumstances. All manner of extravagances, with energies, funds and spoken or written words should be averted rigidly.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a strenuous and aggressive year, in order to protect their interests, funds and well-being personal and business, from snares, maleficent entanglements, treachery and fraud. All forms of prodigality, carelessness and extravagance should be vigorously subdued. In crisis it might be well to confer with elders or superiors.

A child born on this day should possess much initiative, energy and constructive ability, which it will need to sidestep many phases of treachery, betrayal and sorrow, both in business and private associations.

The greatest danger of an inflationary boom will be after the fighting stops. There will then be a tendency on the part of the average citizen to buy the things he couldn't get before and a violent rise in prices may result—William I. Myers, New York State college of agriculture dean.

A balanced budget at the earliest possible time after the war is won will create more jobs than all the projects that government can devise—Gov. Bricker of Ohio.

Blood Pressure Apt to Rise After 50

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A LETTER from Detroit says: "I would like to have your treatment for high blood pressure. I am 55 years old and tests show

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

my blood pressure is 180. There seem to be scores of people troubled this way."

This is an appeal ad hominem, since he asks me for my treatment for high blood pressure and I am in about the same condition. He is, I will give my treatment of myself.

I should preface, by saying, however, that I had another letter from a fellow who said: "The joke is on you. You turned me down for life insurance on account of high blood pressure in 1921 and I am still going strong." This is no news to me. I see a dozen men daily—on the golf links, rushing about the marts of trade—who had really high blood pressure—none of your little 180 stuff—and I turned them down for life insurance.

And let me see—how long ago was that? Well, I haven't examined for life insurance for at least twenty years. And they are still going strong.

Standards Eased

I think the life insurance companies have softened up on their standards a good deal in the last few years.

I tried to find out a few years ago just what was the incidence of high blood pressure in people over 50. How many out of a hundred at that age have a reading of over 150? I wrote to a number of the largest life insurance companies and they didn't know. One or two offered to look it up for me and finally said their figures indicated about 15 per cent, but since they rejected all applicants with a pressure over 150, they were not certain that figure was right.

So I asked a number of physicians to give me the blood pressure readings consecutively on a hundred of their patients over 50 years of age, no matter what disease they had. The first report that came in showed 52 per cent had it, which surprised everybody.

We thought it was inaccurate, but later reports were about the same. And let me emphasize that these physicians were not specialists in heart work or high blood pressure, so the cases were not selective. One was a nose and throat specialist and he found 66 per cent of his patients over 50 had a blood pressure over 150.

My first conclusion then is that more of us have it than we have

it. And we do pretty well with it. I am not trying to minimize the seriousness of the sign, I am perfectly aware that it accompanies or is the cause of kidney disease, Bright's disease, and apoplexy, and heart disease and diabetes and a lot of other conditions. But:

A. The severe, crippling cases are in the minority. Most people never know they have it and die at an advanced age of something else.

B. With a few exceptions—such as angina pectoris and cramps in the legs—it is not painful.

C. Why worry about it because I never knew of any treatment, diet, drug, surgical operation which ever changed anybody's blood pressure for any length of time.

Now to get down to my method of treating my own case. I go to bed between 10 p. m. and 2 a. m. every night. I never get up until after I awaken. After dressing I go down to breakfast. I am very careful about my diet. I eat whatever they put before me, and I have been very careful that no one in my house has heard about blood pressure diets. Then I work about eight hours, punctuated by lunch, several cigars, and an hour's walk.

Then I go home and sit down and smoke two or three cigars before dinner. Then I go to the movies or turn on the radio, or read and then go to bed. And I never let anyone take my blood pressure if I can help it or tell me what my blood pressure is.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. A. R.: Is a heart murmur curable? What are its signs and symptoms? Does it affect the life span of the individual?

Answer: There are about twenty kinds of heart murmurs—some curable, some not. The sign of a heart murmur is a heart murmur. Some murmurs shorten life, some do not.

C. B.: Is the Friedman blood test a sure way to tell pregnancy?

Answer: It is if positive. If negative it is not so sure.

J. H. M.: Is the new injection treatment for varicose veins proving a success?

Answer: Yes.

A. J. P.: What would an inactive thyroid lead to if unnoticed? Would a person who has lived in Michigan 20 years and has an inactive thyroid benefit by going to one of the Gulf States?

Answer: The effects of inactive thyroid are increase in weight, sense of cold, and mental sluggishness. Climate does not help except to make them warm. Why change climate when they can be relieved by taking thyroid extract by mouth?

N. T. C.: Is electric vibration treatment for catarrhs helpful?

Answer: Not only not helpful, but harmful. It takes up the precious time when real treatments could be beneficial.

G. D. W.: You recommend to use mineral oil with discretion. What do you recommend for chronic constipation?

Answer:—Fluid extract of cascara sagrada—five to ten drops or more at bedtime. Enough to get desired effect in the morning.

A. C.: If the urine shows no sugar could there be sugar in the blood?

Answer: There is always sugar in the blood. If it gets above a certain level it generally spills over in the urine. Sometimes, however, but rarely, the kidney filter does not pass the excess and while there is excessive sugar in the blood there is none in the urine.

HOLD-THE-LINE REPORT
Senate Democrats praise the administration's report that the line has been held against inflation for the past year but Republicans charge serious fumbles on wage controls and price subsidies. Adverse criticism includes the assertion that a steady increase in labor costs and a controlled raw materials, according to Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) "driving many small businesses out of business and bringing about black markets."

VILKIE
Aides of Wendell Willkie say he probably will go to Rushville, Ind., his home town, and rest for a few weeks, and there were guesses he might give his worried colleagues the "silent treatment" for a while. Some of his Republican critics have accused the 1940 Republican presidential nominee who retired from the 1944 race after a defeat in the Wisconsin delegates election, of "talking too much."

NEW YORK COURT COACHES SELECT INVADING QUINT

Picked As Nation's Best Basketballers After Recent Tourney

By FRANK ECK
AP Features Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Basketball coaches in New York would have given an eye tooth—and in some cases an arm—to have on their team just one or two of the sensations they saw during the Madison Square Garden season.

But that's wishful thinking. However, five coaches did the next best thing and selected an All Garden team for AP Features, omitting New York players.

Arnold Ferrin Utah
Leo Klier Notre Dame
George Mikan DePaul
John Caywood W. Michigan
And Brindley Dartmouth

RESERVES
Bob Brannum, Kentucky; Ernie Catverly, Rhode Island State; Bob Kurland, Oklahoma A. & M.; Jack Tingle, Kentucky; and Dick Tripp, DePaul.

Coaches who voted were Joe Lapchick, St. John's; Howard Cann, N. Y. U.; Nat Holman, C. C. N. Y.; Ed Kelleher, Army; and Elmer Ripley, Columbia. Ned Irish, acting president and director of Garden basketball, also named a team.

Each coach voted separately and had no knowledge of "the other fellow's" selections.

Arnold Ferrin, 18-year-old freshman sensation who helped drive Utah's youthful Utes to the mythical national intercollegiate crown, was the only player named for the first team by all six men.

Ferrin, a 6-foot, 3½-inch 155-pound blond from Ogden, Utah, scored 52 points in his three Garden appearances, 17 when his NCAA champions halted St. John's, the national invitation winner; 22 in the East-West final against Dartmouth and 13 when Kentucky "eliminated" Utah in the invitation tourney.

George Mikan, DePaul's bespectacled 6-foot 9 center, and Leo Klier, Notre Dame's scoring ace, were chosen by five of the six experts. Klier scored 20 points against NYU in his only Garden game.

Mikan literally ran wild against LIU, St. John's Oklahoma's Aggies and Muhlenberg. He made 49 points in three tournament tests.

And Brindley made three Garden appearances, netting 13 tallies opposing Catholic U., 16 against Ohio State in the first half alone, and 11 against Utah. The Dartmouth captain is 6 foot 4.

John Caywood made only one showing here but that was enough. He tallied 22 points—20 in the first 17 minutes—to lead Western Michigan's Broncos to a 68-49 win over CCNY. And he saw only 19 minutes of action.

Fire Power Ranks Tops With Fliers' Derby Selections

AP Features

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—There is always a lot of talk about how many entries actually will start in the Kentucky Derby, but none is more certain than Fire Power, if owner, Neville Dunn has his way.

Dunn has promised that his brown colt from the blue grass will make the race, if only to please the officers and men of the 14th troop carrier squadron now stationed in Italy.

The outfit has been interested in the thoroughbred ever since its commanding officer, Major Lewis S. Frederick Jr., of Shelbyville, Ky., sold it on the idea long before its departure for overseas. Frederick and Dunn are friends.

Enthusiasm for the agile son of Flint Shot-Little America became so great that members of the squadron voted to collect a pot to bet on their major's choice.

They raised so much money they decided to buy war bonds and when the buying was over they found themselves the owners of bonds valued at $2,500 and first place winner of a contest among buy- Army units overseas.

The major was so pleased with the confidence shown in the colt that he changed the name of his big transport from "Sure Thing" to "Fire Power." "There's no difference, anyhow," the major opines. "The boys rounded up some more money the next payday and Frederick hopes to be able to obtain leave around Derby time to fly here and place the bets personally."

"So if you see a big transport plane flying over Churchill Downs on Derby day with Fire Power painted on the side, you'll know it's me," Frederick wrote Dunn. Frederick's home base is Bowman field, just outside Louisville.

Dunn says "Fire Power will go to the post if he has one good leg to stand on."

Spring Training Camp Briefs

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, April 8.—Baseball players are notoriously superstitious. Most of them shy away from wearing No. 13. To the few who don't, add the name of rookie pitcher Tom Warren, of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Warren, a 23-year-old Tulsa war veteran of Casablanca, apparently thinks what was good enough for Kirby Higbe is good enough for him. Higbe, star Dodger right-hander now in the army, was one of the minority who wore No. 13. Warren succeeded him as No. 13 and demonstrated yesterday that the supposed hoodoo number holds no terror for him.

Pitching five innings of shutout ball against the Montreal Internationals at Bear Mountain, N. Y., Warren yielded only three hits and won the game with a mighty two-run triple in the second inning.

Other major league news:
New York Yankees—Outfielder Johnny Lindell was accepted for service in the Navy, it was learned after the world champions had abruptly ended the six-winning streak of the Philadelphia Athletics, 13-5.

Detroit Tigers—Team opens five-game series with Pittsburgh today. Frank Omerize and Hal Newhouse are listed to pitch today.

Cincinnati Reds—Third baseman Steve Mesner, after holding out for three weeks, reported ten pounds underweight.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Art Cucurullo, rookie southpaw, scheduled to start against Tigers today.

St. Louis Cardinals and Browns—Rookie Al Jurisich, of Carde, is carded to oppose rookie Newman Shirley, of Browns, today in first of St. Louis city series.

Miami Coach Inducted
OXFORD, April 8.—Stuart K. Holcomb, Miami university's head football coach, said today he had been called to active military service April 17.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, April 8.—Bill Brandt is planning to pick an all-college team from this year's National league rookie crop. Here's an attempt to improve on the idea by tossing in a few from the American league, which doesn't have enough collegians to fill all positions.

VEA TEAM

Pitchers: Joe Wood, Jr., Yale and Red Sox; John Johnson, Michigan normal and Yankees; Emerson Roser, Clarkson and Yankees; Carl Lundquist, Mansfield (Pa.) Teachers and Braves; Frank Seward, Duke and Giants; Dale Alderson, Upper Iowa and Cubs. Catchers: Lenny Rice, San Francisco Junior college and Reds; Joe Stephenson, Western Michigan and Giants; William Mills, Holy Cross and Athletics. First base: Lon Goldstein, Texas Wesleyan and Reds. Second base: Hugh Luby, Creighton and Giants; or Don Johnson, Oregon State and Cubs. Shortstop: Ben Geraghty, Villanova and Braves. Third base: George Kell, Arkansas State and Athletics; or Buck Faustett, East Texas State and Reds. Outfield: Eddie Sauer, Elon and Cubs; Tony Criscola, Whitman and Reds; Steve Filipowicz, Fordham and Giants.

NAMES MAKE NEWS

A kid who made all state teams in both football and basketball from Utah's Davis High school is aptly named Jimmy Cleverly. And Tee Branca, Salt Lake golf pro, was christened "Tee" but changed his first name for professional purposes. Back in 1915-16, Carl Pich pitched three shutouts for the Yankees. Easy as Pich, eh?

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Manager Tommy Farmer reports he will take Bantamweight Champion Manuel Ortiz to Boston in June for an outdoor bout against Willie Pep, who seems to have outgrown his feather claims. Dennis Shea, National Football league treasurer, once played stock with Donald Meek of the movies and did publicity for George M. Cohan and Caruso. The Massachusetts Tech crew probably has the tallest stroke in captivity, six-foot, seven-inch Chilly Street. Larry Cowell, recently crowned National A.A.U. 145-pound wrestling champion, took 15 years to reach the peak. He never was a standout grappler at Penn State, but continued to try after his graduation in 1930.

SMITH, REYNOLDS AND HARDER PLAN TO SHARE HONORS

Smith Will Hurl Opener Against White Sox at Chicago April 18

(By Associated Press)

LAFAYETTE, Ind., April 8.—Manager Lou Boudreau puts his ace hurlers on display today as the Cleveland Indians engage the Indianapolis club of the American association in the first of a two-game series.

Al Smith, the Tribe's leading hurler last year, Allie Reynolds, last season's American league strike-out king, and Mel Harder, dean of the elbowing corps, drew three inning assignments.

Smith and Harder appeared briefly in an intrasquad game last week but Reynolds had done no work except in batting practice.

Smith is Boudreau's choice to hurl the season opener against the White Sox at Chicago April 18. Reynolds probably will face the Fale ace the following day, while Harder has been named to work the home opener against the Detroit Tigers at the stadium April 21.

Hurley Ray Post, who decided to abandon his war job and play ball until his draft board calls, arrived in camp yesterday and participated in an indoor workout.

Boudreau is a flu victim and is not expected to play in the week-end series.

Racing Season Opens

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Empire state launches another big betting barrage today as Jamaica launches New York's 190-day racing season with a 25-day spring meeting. Inaugural day feature is the $7,500, six-furlong Paumonok handicap which attracted 14 entries.

Last year the boys who pick 'em to win, place or show poured $284,635,711 in 190 days through New York's mutual machines, out of a total of $710,779,432 wagered throughout the country. Illinois, with $100,403,826, was second to New York, and Massachusetts was third with $50,271,416.

Swift, Fired From Detroit Farm, May Be Key To Tigers' Success

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—When Connie Mack traded Catcher Bob Swift to the Detroit Tigers, he made a dream come true, and a pink slip the most prized possession on the world.

The Athletics' manager also, in the opinion of the Bengals' leader, Steve O'Neill, gave Detroit "the best catcher left in baseball today."

Swift's baseball story started in 1934 with Muskogee, Okla., but it wasn't until 1936 when he was with Charleston, W. Va., that it began to be influenced by the Detroit club.

The Middle Atlantic League team was a farm for the Tigers. Jack Zeller, present Tiger general manager, was the chief scout. On June 27, 1936, Zeller dropped in on the Charleston club and told the manager to fire a catcher named Swift "because he was awful."

"I'll never forget that day," reminisces Bob. "I still carry the pink slip in my pocket. Here I'll show you. It's priceless now."

"When I went home I told my wife, 'Well, I've finally got a pink slip. You know they say you're not a ball player until you get two or three of them.'"

Former Brown Man

"But, I'm not going to wait for two or three. I'm going to make that Detroit club sorry they released me."

From that day on, Bob Swift often thought of getting on the Tigers' roster. Now he has his chance.

In 1940, Swift came up to the big leagues, but it was the Browns who got him. He caught 130 games that year for St. Louis.

He was headed for a big year in 1941 when the Detroit team again interfered with his progress. Bob was catching a Labor day game in the Motor City when Pinky Higgins of the Tigers crashed into him at the plate and crippled his receiving hand.

With the Browns short of catchers, Swift returned to action with a sore mitt. His hitting fell from 378 to 259 for the season.

Early in 1942 the Browns sent him to the A's. Last season he was in 77 games.

Then came the moment Bob had dreamed about and worked for since 1936—he was traded to the Tigers.

Hard To Believe

"I couldn't believe it when I heard it," says Swift enthusiastically. "I felt like jumping over all the neighbors' fences and reporting to Detroit then." (Oct. 8, 1943.)

Probably no other athlete is as happy to be with a ball club. He shows it in his spirit and his work on the field. They can't stop the guy.

"This is the biggest break anyone ever had," Bob proclaims. It's an ambition I've realized, and I intend to make the most of it. I'm a great believer in the right mental attitude—the will to win.

"I've always tried to have it and give all I've got. I figure that the money ball players get, and the hours they put in, entitles the club to the best in a man."

All O'Neill says is: "He'll be our first string catcher and he may be the key to a pennant contender."

AMERICA'S EASTER FAITH

The nations that have died under Nazi and Japanese domination shall live again. For millions of the oppressed in Europe and Asia, the dawn light grows steadily in power and intensity.

Now we are about to meet the supreme test. The people of America will go to church on Easter Sunday to draw once more upon those deep sources of our national strength which always have brought us victory—faith in God, belief in Christianity, determination to build a safe future for our children.

extent of his anxiety by the fierceness of his resistance in the Tarnopol sector of Poland where one of the bloodiest combats of the war is being waged. Also, unless signs fail, we are on the verge of another titanic struggle along the Jassy front which shields the Ploesti oil field from the Red forces thrusting down from the north.

Upon the Hitlerite success in holding this Rumanian front also largely depends the fate of the badly mauled Nazi army of the Odessa sector. Should the Russians make a quick break through into the Danubian basin the doom of the Germans at Odessa will be sealed.

While this great battle of Rumania is being won, our Yankee bombers are pouring high explosives into the Ploesti oil field. Thus it may easily be that the wells of Ploesti will be in ruins long before the struggle of land forces in that theatre has been decided.

Meantime the invasion of western Europe is drawing near. If Hitler loses his Rumanian oil now—not to mention Galicia's small contribution—it will be a catastrophe for him.

Darke County AAA Head Won't Resign

GREENVILLE, April 8.—Ora R. Fellers reiterated today he had "no intention of resigning" as chairman of the Darke County Agricultural Adjustment administration, despite a "deadline" set by a group of farmers who told him to "get out of office by April 8, or else."

Opposition to Fellers has been led by James Mannix, 25-year-old tenant farmer, president of the Wheat Quota Protest association of Darke county. Mannix said he would "call upon" Fellers if he still occupied office today.

"I'll be in my office Saturday," Fellers said earlier. He added he had asked no protection from law enforcement officers.

State AAA headquarters in Columbus reported Wednesday that a group opposed to the AAA destroyed records in three Darke county AAA offices last night.

The Wheat Quota Protest association, through Mannix, asserted the AAA discriminated in the rationing of farm machinery and applications for farm gasoline.

The OPA this week announced that since mid-March it had instructed its rationing boards not to consult AAA officials in localities where such practice might lead to misunderstandings.

All the servicemen had been released from hospitals early this morning.

Seven of the 10 cars in the Cincinnati-to-Cleveland train were derailed. A baggage car and combination baggage-passenger car came to a stop leaning against a bank, while four other cars left the track.

A window in one car was pierced by a utility pole which had snapped off, but passengers were unhurt except for minor cuts from flying glass.

Most of the injured soldiers suffered bruises.

Screaming, frightened passengers were helped from the leaning cars by soldiers who had escaped injury.

The three cars remaining on the tracks after the wreck were re-routed to Columbus over Pennsylvania railroad tracks, as was other Big Four traffic.

All the injured were treated in Columbus hospitals.

Lieut. V. M. Andrews of the state highway patrol, who was on the scene shortly after the wreck, said a section crew had been working in the vicinity some time previously.

Division Superintendent F. A. Dawson of Springfield said cause of the derailment was not known, but that reports a switch at the siding had been left open were being investigated.

Synchronized Attacks
Wolait, midway between Palau and Truk, was raided March 31. From seven to 12 planes were destroyed, ground installations, stores, dumps, building and small craft damaged.

Some Japanese planes vainly attacked the task forces but the American warships, although moving more than 2,000 miles away from the Kwajalein lagoon base in the western Marshalls, did not stir up a challenge of the Japanese navy.

Synchronized air raids in the Central, South and Southwest Pacific helped make possible the deep naval excursion.

The Pacific fleet forces in the western Carolines strike were under the tactical command of Admiral Raymond A. Spruance. The carrier task forces were commanded by Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher.

Ohio Pilot Exceeds Rickenbacker Mark

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, April 8.—Capt. Don S. Gentile, 23-year-old Mustang pilot from Piqua, O., today claimed 27 enemy planes downed in combat—one more than the American record established by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in the first World war and equaled by two Marine fliers in this war.

Gentile is the first American pilot in this theater to equal the record, and perhaps the first in any theater of war to exceed it. Only available records here show Marine Majors Joe Foss of Sioux Falls, S. D., and Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, of Okanogan, Wash., equaled Rickenbacker's record of 26 in the Pacific. Boyington is now missing.

At least eight of the planes claimed by Gentile were destroyed on the ground, however, while Rickenbacker downed all of his in air combat, a record two Marine fliers have equaled in this war.

A public relations officer of the Eighth fighter command said the practice of crediting pilots with planes destroyed on the ground developed in this theater when on many days the Germans did not come up to fight and the Americans went after their airdromes.

American pilots say it is harder to get enemy planes on the ground than in the air because of the hail of gunfire met in diving down and sweeping over a German airfield.

Gentile, with a total of 22, already was tied for first place in this theater before he claimed five planes destroyed on the ground a sweep over Berlin Wednesday.

Gentile, of Italian extraction, waited on tables in his father's night club, the Genoa club, at Piqua while in school and also worked part time at the Jackson steel mill in Piqua.

'Commando' Is Given Leave To Come Home

WITH THE 5TH ARMY, Italy, April 8.—Tech. Sergt. Charles E. (Commando) Kelly, the first enlisted soldier in this war to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor, is going home, it was learned today.

The man who was decorated by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark for his "one man blitzkrieg" in which he single-handedly destroyed about 40 Germans between Salerno and the Rapido river, is being returned under the army's rotation policy and will leave immediately.

Kelly, who lives in Pittsburgh, received the news of his return almost simultaneously with word that his mother, deaf, and her sight failing fast, had appealed to President Roosevelt to allow her hero son to come home to visit her for a few days.

Charles is one of seven sons the widowed Mrs. Irene Kelly has in service.

CAMP CARSON, Colo.—What are Army nurses made of? How can they take the dangers and gruelling hardships they are called upon to meet daily on battlefronts around the world? Where do they get the stamina to work tirelessly close to the fighting fronts, live under primitive conditions, even face enemy fire?

Upon what reserves can they call for the gallantry and devotion to duty that has won for many of them the same medals awarded to our fighting men?

Here at Camp Carson they know the answers. For it is here that many nurses now overseas learned how to "take it" and many others are undergoing the tough training that will fit them for the stern life ahead, on the fighting fronts.

Here they sleep in tents in the rugged Rocky Mountains, hike miles with full packs, undergo surprise gas and smoke attacks and learn to go on bivouac in the field with the men and officers of their hospital units.

Just how thorough this training it was shown recently when the 226th Station hospital, commanded by Maj. Raymond E. Davies, went on bivouac. This is the story:

"Are you ready? Helmets adjusted, leggings fastened, canteens filled" asks Lt. Muriel Light, chief nurse. She gives the command. "Forward March!" and the nurses leave the post at 8:30 in the morning for their bivouac area 10 miles away. They step along briskly, keeping up with the men and officers of the outfit.

At 11:30 they go over the last hill into the pine-dotted valley chosen for the bivouac area. The hard ground makes a welcome place to rest and G. I. helmets a good pillow.

Rest is not for long, but it is interrupted by the welcome sound of "Chow." And do those nurses pack away huge sandwiches of cheese, bologna, and liverwurst, potato salad and hot coffee!

Almost as welcome as chow call is mail call. Nurses are no different from G. I.'s. They live for mail call and that letter from home, or from someone now overseas.

Time to read your mail and then there is work to be done. Classes are held for two hours in first aid, ambulance loading and litter drill. Nurses must have many hours of training in the field so that they can operate quickly and efficiently when sent overseas, as they are doing in Italy on the Anzio beach. After these problems, athletic games are scheduled to help in toughening bodies. The comradeship and joviality of the nurses, officers and enlisted men binds the hospital units into a group working, thinking and playing together.

Another G. I. meal after retreat and a little time together around the fire and sing. Steel helmets make odd shadows in the firelight. The husky voices of the men blend with those of the nurses. But fun is not for long because a night problem must be solved. The nurses must be quiet and obey orders, as a simulated attack of the camp is taking place.

At last, time for bed. Even though the nurses are dead tired, they still take a few minutes for beauty work. Cold cream jars come out of green G. I. musette bags. A few pin up their short cropped hair. All wear warm pajamas and soon are zipped into their bed rolls. The big gasoline lamp is turned out by the chief nurse, Lt. Light. She's young and attractive but can give orders quickly and efficiently when necessary.

Reveille! That mountain breeze is cold in the tent! Some warm their wash cloths by the coal stoves (The nurses gather the wood and build their own fires.)

Hot coffee and a good breakfast, and they are off to work again on extended order drill. Nurses know how to march in extended order drill just in case they meet up with the enemy. They learn to hit the ground, run on the double and keep a certain distance apart when marching.

Then comes map reading. They study along with men. Maps of the bivouac area are provided and they must be able to find their location from the map.

The second day of bivouac is a full one. Perhaps the most exciting incident is the gas attack. While marching, tear gas and smoke is released as a surprise. Quickly the nurses put their gas masks on and walk safely through the gas.

Their beds are as welcome the second night as they were the night before. The next morning when they awake the ground is covered with snow.

Snow or no snow there is still work to be done—and the nurses do it cheerfully and efficiently before returning to camp.

This station hospital is just one of the many which have trained at Carson. From the commanding officer of one of these outfits now serving overseas (the name of which cannot be given) comes the following words of praise about the rugged training nurses of these hospitals get:

"Our conditioning at our home station stood us mighty well. Col. Wilfred M. Blum, camp commander and his training officer, Lt. Col. Theodore A. Arndt, had exactly the right idea. Our nurses have taken whatever came along in stride and the hardships don't bother them. Thanks to the hardening and the woollens, especially the long-handled underwear, we've done pretty well."

Gas Rations Revoked
CLEVELAND, April 8.—Lowell Wadsworth of Sandusky, a partner in the Sandusky Roofing Co., has been deprived of supplemental gasoline rations for four months after a hearing by Office of Price administration officials on charges of excessive nonessential driving and illegal use of supplemental rations.

OPA Hearing Officer Charles Rogers said the suspension resulted from a vacation trip which Wadsworth made to Florida.

Easter Buying Rises
NEW YORK, April 8.—A final pre-Easter buying spurge sent retail dollar volume substantially ahead of last year's levels, Dun & Bradstreet said today in a weekly review of business.

For the country as a whole, the agency estimated sales were ahead of last year by 13 to 19 per cent, but pointed out comparisons were affected by the two weeks earlier Easter this year.

NAZIS FLEE

strongpoint was captured Wednesday.

In a two-day battle which followed, the Russian communiqué said, 5,000 Germans were killed and more than 1,000 captured, as the encircled foe tried to crack the Russian ring.

The resistance of other large German forces surrounded near Skala and in Tarnopol to the northwest was gradually weakening, dispatches said.

Repeated Nazi attempts to relieve the Tarnopol garrison fighting in the city's streets were reported repulsed with heavy losses, while all efforts to cut through the Skala pocket proved abortive, 4,000 Germans being wiped out by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First Ukrainian army troops.

Mayak, taken by a Russian column driving down the east bank of the Dniester river from Baden, is at the end of the Dniester estuary, 13 miles north of Ovidopol, ferry terminus where the last escape route from Odessa crosses the eight-mile wide mouth of the estuary to Akkerman in lower Besarabia. Ovidopol is 18 miles west of Odessa.

17-Year Old Author of Army Book is Navy Bound

(By United Press)

INDIANAPOLIS—Tommy Wadewell, the son of a retired Army colonel and the author of three amusing books on the trials of an "Army brat," has decided—of all things—to join the Navy.

The 17-year-old author of best-sellers "My Mother is a Violent Woman," "My Father is a Quiet Man," and "Army Brat," says he wants to be a Naval photographer. To that end, Wadewell intends to enroll in a photography course at Columbia next June and then enlist in the Navy, in the ranks.

Meanwhile, Tommy, a sophomore at Butler University, is rewriting his fourth book-length manuscript, title unannounced. His publisher contends that Tommy has played up the war too much in a story which revolves, we're told, around a ghost.
